Ibotta with Ibotta, you make valid purchases at your favorite stores and then upload a photo of your receipt. Within 24 hours you will get money back into your Ibotta account. It works a bit more like a lull and less like a coupon but the payment is so fast that it's convenient at the same time. You can also link certain Store Loyalty Cards to your Ibotta account so that valid Ibotta offers are automatically accepted to your account, without the need to upload a receipt. Once you reach $20 you can withdraw your money and have it shipped to PayPal or Venmo or you can purchase a gift card through the app. Users have the opportunity to make money by performing quick tasks on selected grocery products and pharmacies. The app is designed to reward activity, so the more a user messes with the app, the more money they make. Ibotta can also be used as a lender for other money-saving services, including coupons, reward programs, and even other money-saving apps. When you're ready to cash in and get all the money you've earned, you send the completed offers and proof of purchase, wait 24 hours, then go to your PayPal account where the money is deposited. Isn't that cool? Tired of cutting, printing and organizing stacks of coupons every week? It's time to use technology and start downloading coupons for your grocery card or mobile phone instead. Download coupons, including manufacturer coupons are paperless, hassle-free access to coupons, and it really catches on. Sign up on one of the many e-coupon websites and sign up for your grocery store's loyalty cards. You can then log in every week before shopping. You can choose which coupons you want to add to your card. When the cashier scans your store card at checkout, your coupons will be automatically withheld from the total payment. These simple steps will ensure you don't leave your coupons at home. You also won't get the glee and eyeballs while you hold the line as you sort a loaf of printed coupons. Not only will you save money, everyone behind you in line will be grateful. SavingStar: These coupons can be redeemed in more than 58,000 grocery and pharmacy stores. New coupons are usually added every Thursday. They also make a coupon for a healthy item on Tuesdays and a free item on Fridays. Cellfire: These coupons work in more than 17,500 grocery stores. Sign up with some mobile phone coupon sites and start having coupons sent to your phone. Some sites require you to choose which coupons you want, while others automatically send you the latest coupons each week. SaveStar: Get the SavingStar app: iPhone, Android. With the app, you can load coupons for your Store Cards from anywhere (even at checkout line). Target: Sign up for mobile coupons, and a new batch will be sent to your phone each month, including a single barcode that you can scan for everyone. Then, get the target cartwheel app for even more coupons. Cellfire: Get the Cellfire app and load even more coupons into your store card on the way. It also allows you to load non-grocery coupons directly into your phone. Ibotta: Download the Ibotta app. When you buy eligible items, you take a picture of your receipt and your earnings will be deposited into your account. This application includes a lot of high value offerings. Cash Register51: Select the offers you want; buy them; Then send a picture of your receipt to get your savings. Shopmium: Select the suggestions you're interested in: Then send a photo of your receipt through the app, and your import will be deposited into your bank or PayPal account. Now you're set up for savings, and you don't have to keep sorting through a stack of coupons to be sure that the offers are still current. You don't have to hold the line again. Just make sure your battery has enough life to help you get through your shopping spree. Skip to the mainContentHome Home & LivingShutterstock / George Rudyti is the weekly delivery we all love to have grocery shopping. From standing in long lines to not being able to find avocados completely ripe to juggling your list, keys and coffee while simultaneously pushing a cart, this can be a difficult task to handle. But fortunately, there's an app for that, and we've tuned up our top 10 tech favors below. Thanks to these grocery shopping apps, you can say goodbye to that scary moment when you get to the store and realize you've left your list at home (we've all been there). 1. Flipp The only app that matches coupons from your favorite brand with the circuit from your local store. Flipp is designed to maximize your savings while you shop. It offers the weekly ads of more than 1,000 retailers. 2. MealBoardConsider is the ultimate all-in-one app: it does everything from managing your recipes to storing your grocery list to even tracking what you do (rather than in the pantry). 3. AnyList The best part about AnyList (except that it helps you keep a super organized list) is that you can share your list with them means your husband has no excuse for forgetting essentials. 4. The PalGrocery Pal grocery store is a bargain hunter's dream. It allows you to browse all the sales and deals at the stores you like to shop at (even non-grocery stores like Target and Walmart) and easily add items that are on sale to your grocery list. 5. Buy me a cake! Make your shopping much more efficient with Buy Me Cake! Our favorite feature? The fact that you can sort your list by grocery store aisle so that you don't have to double back forgotten products. 6. The iOTHis grocer has the word IQ in it for a reason: Its main goal is to help you buy smarter. The grocery IQ helps you become a smarter shopper with convenient features like scanning a barcode through your phone's camera. Just take a picture in the app, and you can't add the item to your list next time! 7. From the MilkAptly name, the defining feature of this app is the pantry list which lets you know when your inventory of certain products is low so you never, well, run out of milk. 8. KeyRingStreamline holds your keys (and avoid accidentally losing one of your cards) by organizing all your loyalties and rewarding memberships in this app. 9. Not sure what you want to make for tomorrow's Big Oban family dinner. You can contact friends to see what they've been buying and doing (to get some inspiration), or you can type what leftovers you have in the fridge to find recipes that will resid in them until 10. The specially produced, the 1000s, are on sale this week... But you have no idea what to do with them, how to store them, or what they really taste like. That's where special produce comes in... This gives you all the information you need about unique finds, including popular recipes from food bloggers. Your weekly trip to the grocery store may never be your favorite thing in the world, but, at least with these grocery shopping apps, you'll be much more prepared, much more organized and much less stressed. And just think, you'll never have to pay full price for chicken breasts again! Here's what to do with all the chicken you have on sale when you need a light meal, flavor packed, start with a packet of chicken breasts. You will find the recipe details for the dishes in the video in the following 5 slides. Craving more? Take an even more look at our quick chicken dinners.
